Florance honored among Washington's most influential technology leaders

ARLINGTON, Va.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Sep. 16, 2025-- CoStar Group, Inc. (NASDAQ: CSGP), a leading provider of online real estate marketplaces, information, analytics, and 3D digital twin technology, today announced that Founder and Chief Executive Officer Andy Florance has been named one of Washingtonian Magazine's 2025 Tech Titans. This marks the fourth consecutive year Florance has earned a place on the prestigious list, which recognizes the region's most influential and innovative leaders driving the future of technology.

Florance was recognized in the Starters category, highlighting visionary founders and CEOs who are transforming industries through disruptive technology platforms. His inclusion underscores CoStar Group's success in redefining both the commercial and residential real estate sectors, led most recently by the extraordinary momentum of Homes.com.

Washingtonian praised Florance for building "a $37 billion juggernaut with 6,800 employees, and he's not slowing down."

CoStar Group continues to deliver record-breaking performance. In Q2 2025, the company reported $781 million in revenue, up 15% year-over-year, with net new bookings reaching an all-time high of $93 million. Homes.com alone grew net new bookings by 56% in the quarter, fueled by a nationwide marketing campaign that is rapidly reshaping the residential listings landscape.

"It's an honor to once again be included among Washington's Tech Titans. This recognition reflects the hard work and relentless innovation of our entire CoStar Group team. From digitizing the commercial property market to making Homes.com the fastest-growing residential portal in the nation, we are transforming how people find and connect with real estate. Our mission has always been to empower people with the insights and tools they need to make smarter decisions — and that commitment continues to guide everything we do," saidAndy Florance.
